

Fragmented Condition

Input

Well, Handprints, Rainy Night

Response

On a rainy night, a grandmother greeted her grandson at an old farmhouse situated on the outskirts of a quiet village. Behind the farmhouse was a well, forgotten by the villagers. As the grandmother talked about the well, a chilling smile appeared on her face.

"In the old days, people used to draw water from this well. But now, people avoid it, saying it scares them. Do you know why?" The grandson looked at his grandmother with curious eyes.

Evaluation

Horror Atmosphere80%

Negative

Use of traditional horror elements

Positive

Techniques for creating anxiety and tension

Positive

Suggestion and depiction of supernatural entities

Positive

Model of ambiguous horror and mystery

Positive

Ambiguous ending maximizing fear and suspense

View Details

QueryWell, Handprints, Rainy Night

Collapse

Response

On a rainy night, a grandmother greeted her grandson at an old farmhouse situated on the outskirts of a quiet village. Behind the farmhouse was a well, forgotten by the villagers. As the grandmother talked about the well, a chilling smile appeared on her face.

"In the old days, people used to draw water from this well. But now, people avoid it, saying it scares them. Do you know why?" The grandson looked at his grandmother with curious eyes. The grandmother paused briefly, her unsettling smile growing deeper.

That night, heavy rain poured down. Awakened by the sound

Stimulating the reader's imagination through environmental clues (sounds, traces)

"That night, heavy rain poured down. Awakened by the sound of water, the grandson heard strange noises coming from downstairs. It sounded like whispers coming from the well. Cautiously approaching, he peered over the well's edge and saw wet handprints scattered around it. "

Positive

Reason
This scene contains several elements that heighten the atmosphere of horror. A rainy night, strange sounds, and whispering voices, and wet handprints all imply the presence of something supernatural. Particularly, the 'wet handprints' suggest that someone has recently emerged from the well, intensifying the sense of terror. The scene effectively employs implicit horror, stimulating the reader's imagination without explicitly showing conventional horror elements (ghosts, monsters, etc.).

A) Details Tab

B) Evaluation Details

C) Map Visualization

Input

Well, Handprints, Rainy Night

Response

On a rainy night, a grandmother greeted her grandson at an old farmhouse situated on the outskirts of a quiet village. Behind the farmhouse was a well, forgotten by the villagers. As the grandmother talked about the well, a chilling smile appeared on her face.

"In the old days, people used to draw water from this well. But now, people avoid it, saying it scares them. Do you know why?" The grandson looked at his grandmother with curious eyes.

Evaluation

Horror Atmosphere80%

Psychological horror that stimulates suggestion and imagination without explicit explanations

View Details

QueryWell, Handprints, Rainy Night

Collapse

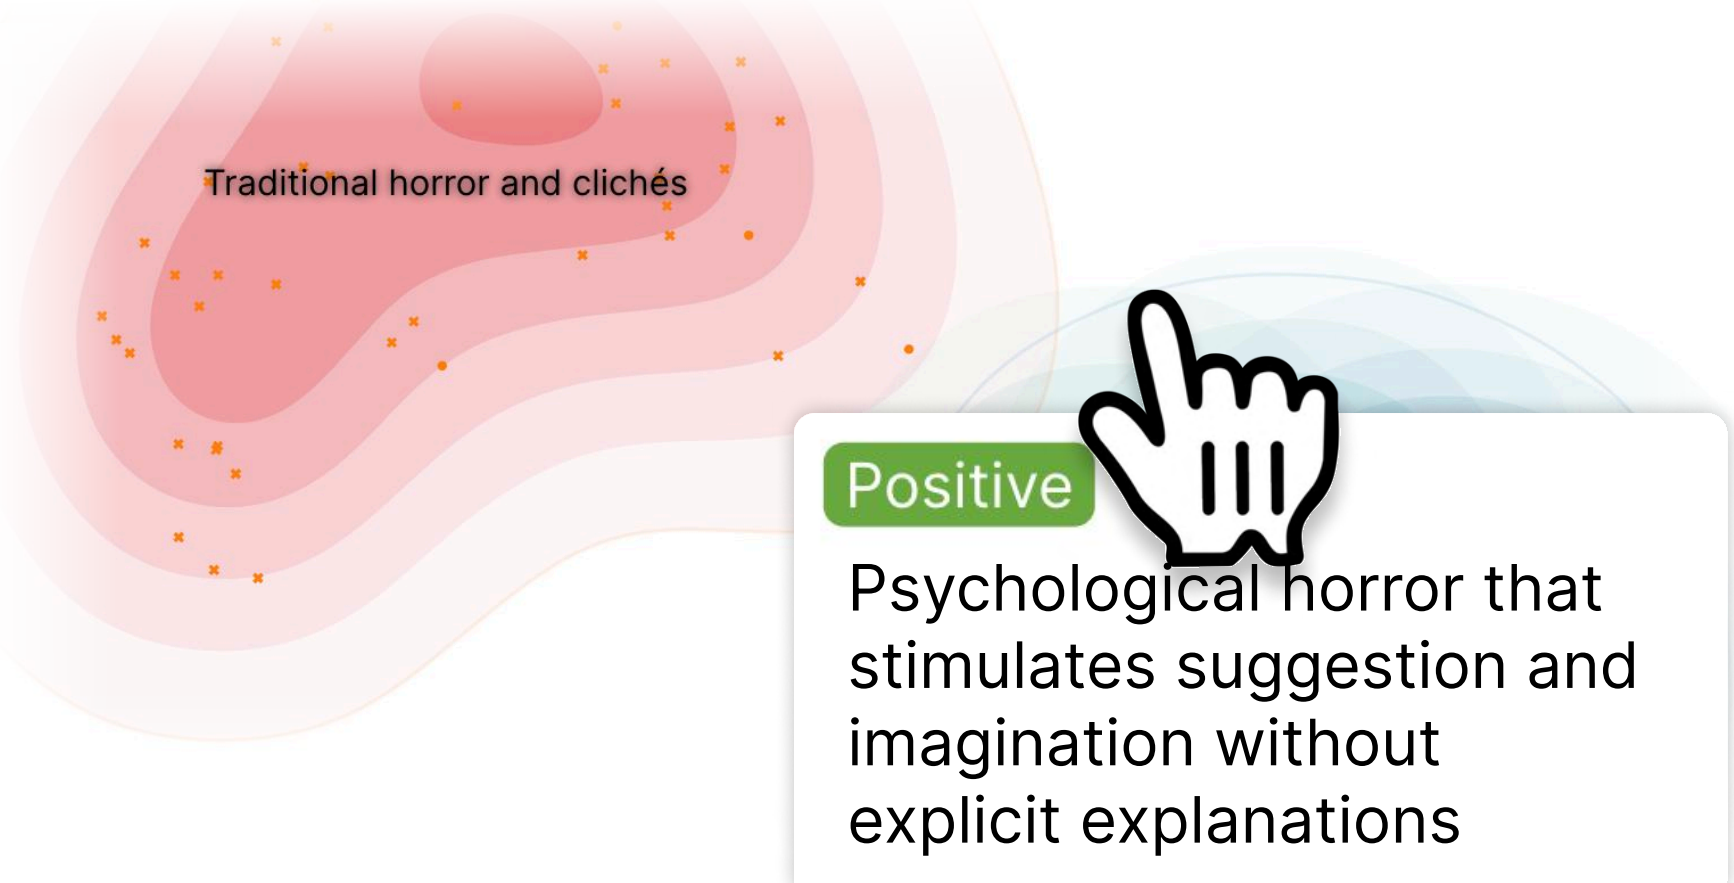

Response

On a rainy night, a grandmother greeted her grandson at an old farmhouse situated on the outskirts of a quiet village. Behind the farmhouse was a well, forgotten by the villagers. As the grandmother talked about the well, a chilling smile appeared on her face.

"In the old days, people used to draw water from this well. But now, people avoid it, saying it scares them. Do you know why?" The grandson looked at his grandmother with curious eyes. The grandmother paused briefly, her unsettling smile

Overall Score80%

Justification
Overall, this story effectively implements implicit horror. While initially relying somewhat on traditional horror tropes (isolated farmhouse, old well), as the narrative progresses, it increasingly builds fear through implication and readers' imaginations rather than explicit descriptions. In particular, the grandmother's line, "The well remembers its old friends," serves as a turning point, creating an "Aha! moment" that prompts readers to reinterpret earlier scenes. Elements such as

Holistic Condition